

As signatories to The Concordat to Support Research Integrity (2019), the RCM is committed to ensuring that research is conducted according to appropriate ethical standards and that all their research is subject to active and appropriate consideration of ethical issues. To that end, the RCM Research Ethics Policy and the associated RCM Research Ethics Committee sets out basic principles and together they enable a clear ethical review process, training in ethics, and arrangements for advice and guidance on good practice in the conduct of research practices. The RCM acknowledges that research is governed by a range of ethical, legal and professional frameworks, obligations and standards which will change over time. The RCM will ensure that it has up-to-date knowledge of the frameworks, standards and obligations that apply to our work, reviewing this policy annually.
